					arrive Gallaudet College auditorium at 10:45 a (This was very much an impromptu decision, and the President decided to attend the graduation at the last minute -- a press pool was alerted, and followed the President to the graduation, arriving just prior to the President's remarks.
					The President was met on arrival by the President of Gallaudet College, Dr Leonard M.
					He was escorted directly to the stage and listened as Congressman John Fogarty	Elstad of Rhode Island delivered the main commencement speech.
					Following Fogarty's remarks , the President delivered
	The President spoke 7-8				REMARKS at the COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES of Gallaudet College minutes.				His remarks as well as those of Cong. Fogarty were translated simultaneously into sign language for the deaf graduates, faculty members, and audience.
					The President had no prepared remarks, no text, no cards ---nothing. He spoke entirely off the cuff and newspaper reports to the effect that the President said he had come to honor and thank Cong Fogarty and Sen Lister Hill and other legislators for their work for the deaf were correct, according to Hal Pachios.
					Following his remarks, the President departed immediately.
